SEMINARIANS ENJOY ANNUAL SPRING DINNER

Spirit of Good-Fellowship Prevails; Many Guests In Attendance.

With a spirit of good-fellowship and humor paramount, the second annual spring banquet of the student-ministers at the Lutheran Theological Seminary was held Friday evening at the Seminary. From the words of greeting by the chairman, C. R. Nagele, to the singing of "Alma Mater" at the close, the affair was pronounced a success.

A preliminary entertainment was furnished for the seminarians and their friends, most of whom were from out of town, by the talented reader, Dr. George Sleeth, of Pittsburgh, and the well-known Seminary Quartet, before the banquet was served.

Quartet Sings

Dr. Sleeth drew his word pictures with such skill that his hearers were literally and figuratively carried over hill and down dale as he told the story of a deer hunt on a foggy night. The quartet sang a number of old favorite selections, interspersed with a group of old and difficult Russian folk songs.

After this program, which was given at the social hall, the seminarians and their guests went to the refectory, which was tastefully decorated in green and white, with an abundance of spring flowers.

Dr. J. A. Singmaster, president of the seminary, was toastmaster, and at the close of the dinner called for a number of toasts. Among the toasts was the reading of three sonnets, the original compositions of Dr. M. Coover, Dr. H. C. Alleman, Dr. J. A. Clutz, Dr. A. R. Wentz and Dr. Sleeth also responded to the toastmaster's call with some clever after dinner reminiscences.

Honor guests of the evening were Dr. and Mrs. Singmaster, Dr. and Mrs. Sleeth, Miss Ida Wallace, New York City; Dr. and Mrs. Alleman, Dr. and Mrs. Wentz, Dr. M. Coover, Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars and Dr. and Mrs. Clutz.

Guests of Students

Guests of the seminarians themselves included:

Miss Landis, of Boyertown; Miss Bence, of Indiana; Miss Trenn, of Danville; Miss Cowper, of Pittsburgh; the Misses Rohrer and Stitzel, of Hagerstown, Maryland; the Misses Kautz, Jennings, and Smith, of York; Miss Hockensmith, of Taneytown, Maryland; Miss Allnutt, of Washington, D. C.; Miss Mogel, of Newport; Miss Gritter, of Turbottville; Miss Bussman, of Baltimore, Maryland; Miss Kling, of Hanover, and Mrs. Bower, Mrs. Marjorie Sorrick, the Misses Scott, Clare, and Henry, all of Gettysburg.

GEORGE HEMLER TO OPEN STORE

The local branch of the Automotive Stores Corporation, Carlisle street, which has been located here for four years, closed its doors Friday and the equipment and stock moved to the York branch.

George Hemler, manager of the store for two years, announced this morning that on May 1st, he will re-open an accessory store with a complete line of automotive parts, tires, etc. The store in the future will be known as Hemler's Tire and Accessory Store. Mr. Hemler will remain open during the period of renovation and re-stocking and will continue to serve motorists with gasoline and oil.

GOOD SEATS FOR PLAY AVAILABLE

A number of good seats are still available for "Rosetime," musical comedy to be presented Monday evening at the Lincoln Way Theater by the Acorn Club for the benefit of the Annie M. Warner Hospital.

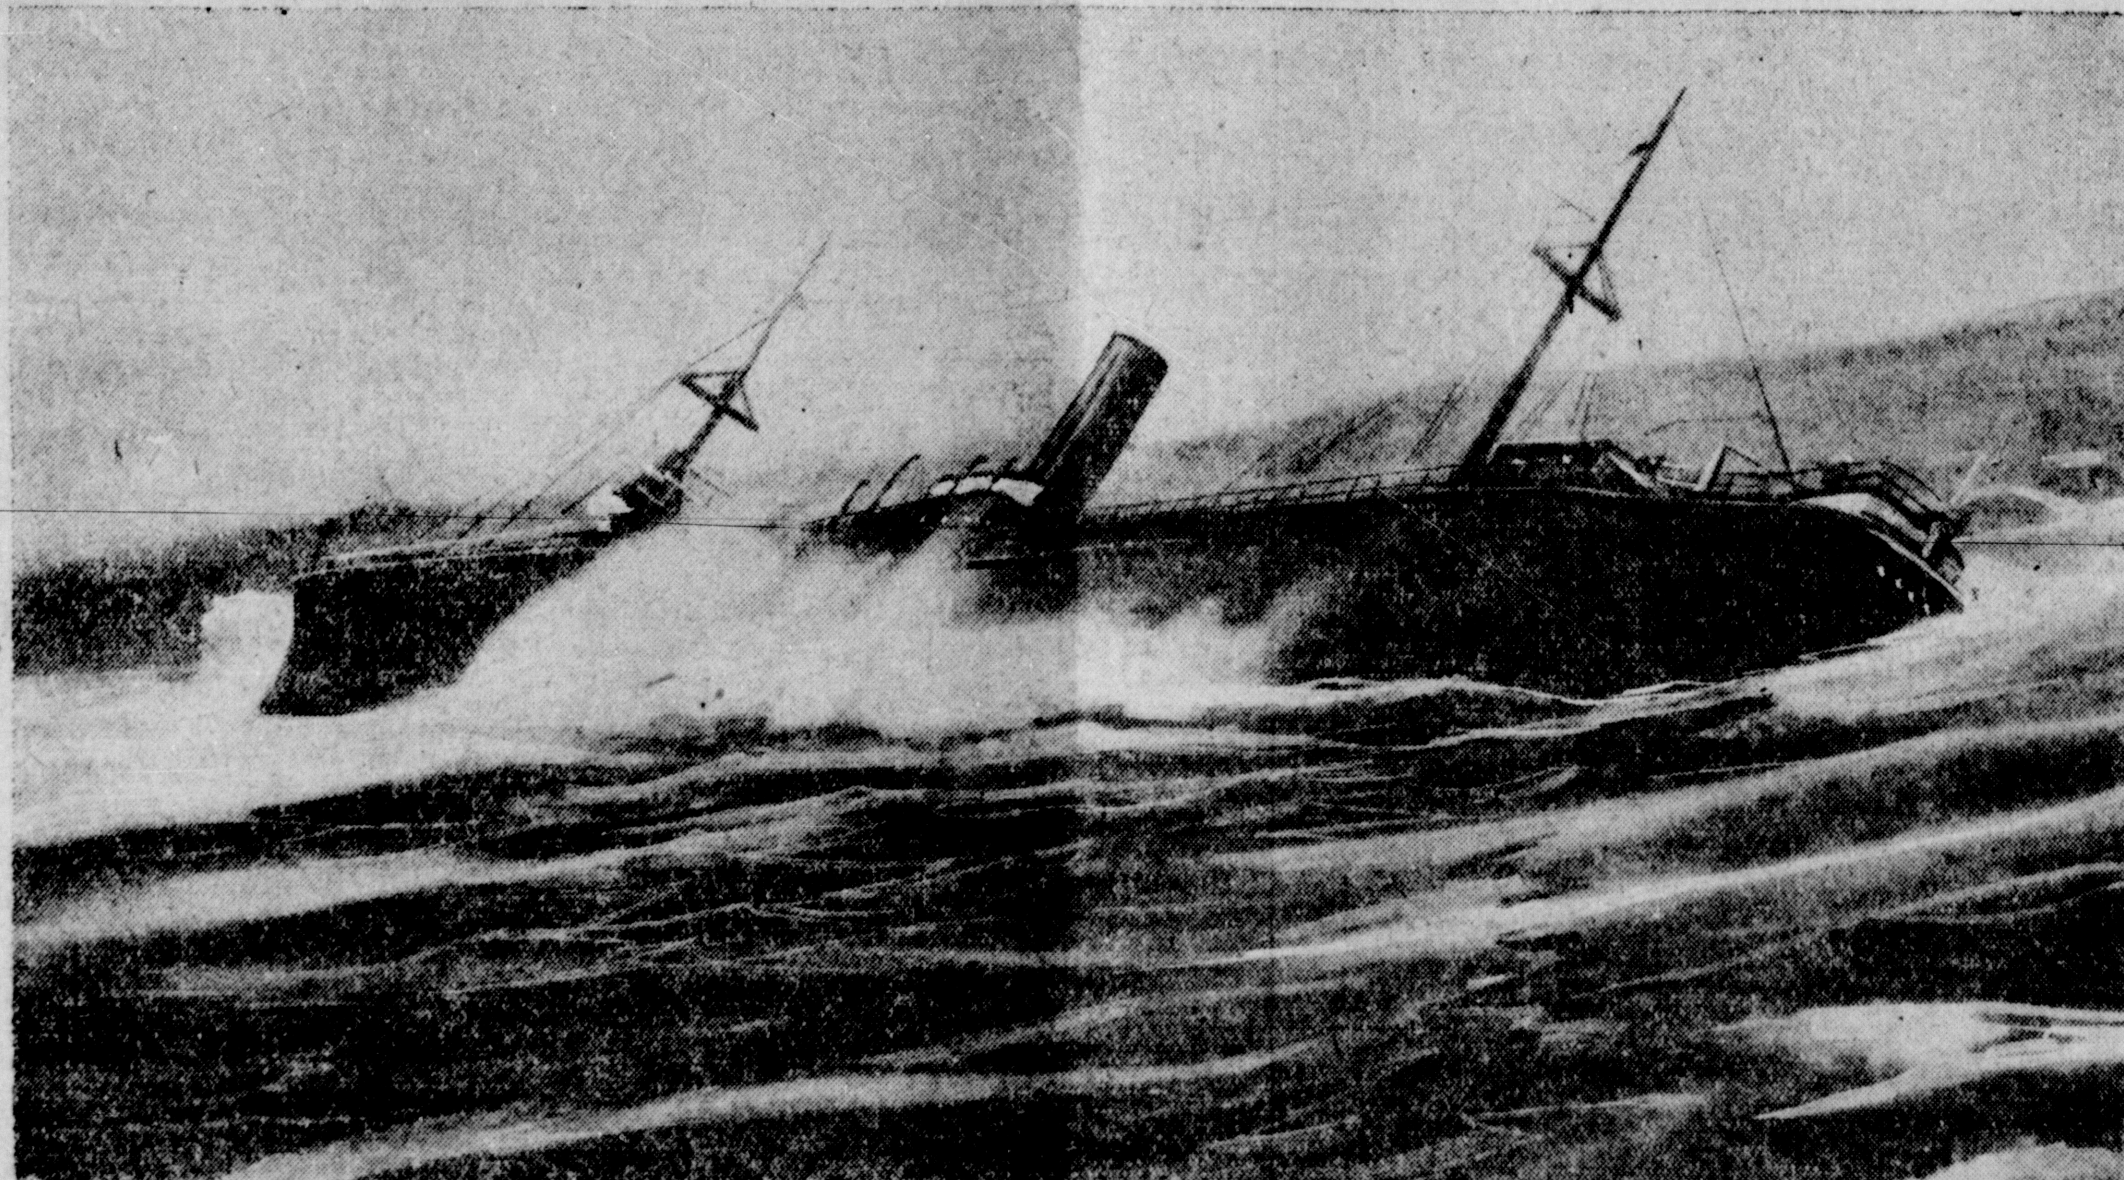

The chart opened several days ago and while the advanced seat sale is not very large at the present, it is believed that a packed house will greet the players Monday evening. Rehearsals have been progressing nicely through the week and the players are said to be anxious for the curtain-raising Monday.

First Photograph of Doomed Raifuku Maru Just as She Sank

Sinking with all hands, as shown in this photograph, taken by a passenger on the Homeric, the Japanese freighter, Raifuku Maru was within 400 feet of the big British liner. As the picture was taken the doomed vessel capsized. There was some division of opinion among Homeric passengers as to whether the Japanese crew might have been saved. Captain Roberts, of the Homeric, declared he could not launch his life boats before the men were drowned.

Gettysburgian Tells of Visit to His Birthplace in Germany

Writing from the town of his birth, Schlitz, Ober-Hessen, Germany, William Grecht, who with Mrs. Grecht, Springs avenue, is touring Europe, tells of having taken coffee with the family which now occupies the house in which he was born, in a letter received by The Gettysburg Times from Mr. Grecht this morning. The letter was written at Schlitz on April 11.

This is the second letter the Times has received from Mr. and Mrs. Grecht, the first having told of their trip across the Atlantic and their tour of southern Europe. The accompanying letter tells of the trip from Venice to Schlitz. After visiting Paris and some of the battlefields of the World War, Mr. and Mrs. Grecht will sail from Cherbourg, arriving in New York City about the middle of May.

Mr. Grecht's letter follows: "We left Venice April 1, via the Tyrolean Alps to Munich. We traveled through Italy from the Mediterranean to the Adriatic Sea. The scenery consists mainly of grape vines growing on the border of all land, whether small or large acreage. The short growth of the vines is burned to charcoal and then used for fuel. The vines are trained from tree to tree about ten feet apart. There are no woods or forests in Italy, but we came into a land of wonderful fields, woods and forests. The forests are owned by the state and thousands of people are employed in them, cutting and re-planting. There is nothing wasted, even the smallest twigs are bundled and sold.

Exciting Arguments

"In traveling on the trains from morning until night, one comes in close contact with his fellow passengers, as the trains are made up of coupes holding from six to eight persons, and in the system of seating, passengers face each other. Of course, we conversed, and debated the cause of the world war, and sometimes the arguments were very exciting but they always ended pleasantly.

ly. Not only the passengers in our coupe, but also those in the adjoining coupe took part, (as we were Americans) in asking them at the end of our debate, if they thought the Germans were right or justified in going into Belgium and France, and they all admitted it was wrong.

"Our passports which we had to show quite often, cost us to U. S. A. $10.00, countersigning by Italy $10.00, Germany $10.00, and France $10.00. When we got to the Austrian frontier we were asked to show our passports, but we did not know that in passing through such a short stretch it was necessary to have it countersigned, and we were amazed when they asked us to pay $22.00 as a fine. Of course we were obliged to pay. We had only a little paper money and offered them American gold, which they would not accept. They wanted Italian Liras, but said they would take checks, so we settled with them by giving them Travelers Checks. The whole transaction was very disgusting. There are quite a number of disagreeable happenings on a trip of this kind. Some places they add 20 per cent for service and tips and you get no service worth while.

Stop In Munich

"We stopped off at Munich which is one of the finest cities we have ever seen, but now one cannot detect the least sign of the great calamity they went through, as the people were well dressed and seemed to be well fed. The only complaint that is made is about the high taxation; there is a sales tax, an income tax, trade tax and a tax on one's worth, etc. Every person in every walk of life, pays 10 per cent of their earnings. Fifteen marks, or $3.75 per week, only, is exempt. Wages, as a rule, are the same as before the war, some, of course, are higher, but the cost of living is about 160 as against 100, before the war.

MANY OPPOSE PARKING PLAN

Angle Parking Subject of Discussion Among Motorists; Firemen Also Oppose System.

MAY BE CHANGED

Shall Gettysburg's parking system be changed?

That is the question which has members of the highway committee of council worried. Ever since last summer when council authorized angle parking on the main streets, one and two blocks from Center Square, there has been some discussion as to the feasibility of the system.

There were many motorists who contended that the plan met with their hearty approval, since 45-degree angle at which cars were parked, allowed them free entrance and egress to and from the curb, according to members of the highway committee.

It was also contended by this group of proponents that fewer damaged fenders resulted from the angle parking than under the old plan of parking parallel with the curb, so long as the motorists used care in not running over the white marked stall lines.

There is another group, members of the highway committee said, who have been "knocking" angle parking since it was instituted, and apparently the majority of motorists are in this group.

Narrow Driving

These opponents of sharp angle parking declare that with the ends of cars protruding out toward the middle of the street from both curbs, there is very little room for cars traveling in opposite direction to pass. Ofttimes, the highway committee has been informed, the parked cars extend out toward the middle of the street so far that it is impossible for two cars to pass.

The group opposing the present parking system declare with the heavy tourist traffic through Gettysburg's streets during the summer months, the parking system is a menace to travel and should be abolished, members of the highway committee have been told. ACQUITTED MAN SERIOUSLY ILL

Charles F. Wilkinson, who was acquitted of a charge of manslaughter by a jury in Judge Wann's court at York Wednesday is reported to be seriously ill at his home in Fayetteville. He is suffering from quinsy and it is said, that an operation may be necessary.

Wilkinson contracted a severe sore throat on Monday, the day his trial began. When he was called to testify in his own behalf he could speak only with difficulty. It was apparent as the trial proceeded that he was not well. Following his release he went to his home at Fayetteville and then immediately took his bed.

New High School a Certainty As Architect Submits Plans

An architect has been employed, his plans, in general, have been approved, and funds are on hand or in prospect for the erection of a new high school building for Gettysburg on the Kurtz tract, familiarly known as the playground.

That was the statement authorized this morning by the school board, following a consultation with their architect, B. E. Starr, of Harrisburg, a native of Littlestown, on Friday night, when Mr. Starr presented revised plans, which are expected to be approved by the school board in the near future, probably as soon as the middle of next week.

Along with the approval, in the main, given Mr. Starr's plans for the projected high school, being built to relieve overcrowded conditions in the present high school building and in the seventh and eighth grades, the school board authorized the statement that it had on hand or in prospect a sum of approximately $108,810, which it is believed is sufficient to build the kind of high school building that will not be outgrown, and at the same time be a credit to the community.

To Cost $90,000

Mr. Starr's plans, as presented to the board at its special meeting Friday evening, call for an expenditure of between $80,000 and $90,000 for the completed building, completely equipped. The Harrisburg architect was asked to make certain minor changes in the plans and report back to the board next week, so that they may be approved and bids asked for the erection of the new building.

That the proposed building will be the last word in high school architecture is the assurance of every member of the board. It will be modern in every sense of the word, it was stated, and everything possible will be done to provide for the best interests of teachers and pupils alike.

The building will consist of a main section, facing toward Baltimore street, with wings extending from the rear at both ends of the building.

Between these wings will be the auditorium, designed to seat more than 800 persons.

18 Classrooms

The building will contain 16 or 18 classrooms, together with rooms for the principal, and a large gymnasium, which will be directly below the auditorium. Cloakroom space, which is one of the cramped features of the present high school building, will be provided in the new building.

One of the features of the building, which will necessitate the re-establishment of the domestic science course at the high school, will be a cafeteria. This should prove a boon to out-of-town children, who previously have been compelled to eat cold luncheons or patronize restaurants. The cafeteria will be so arranged, according to plans, that it can be used for class and school banquets.

The auditorium will seat crowds larger than have ever attended any high school function, graduations included. It will be made purposely large to accommodate convention crowds, and to take care of the natural expansion in the number of high school pupils.

A gallery at one side of the auditorium will be reached from the second floor of the building proper, while at the other end will be a modern, well-equipped stage, large enough to accommodate high school shows, commencements and other functions requiring a rostrum.

Large Gymnasium

The gymnasium below the auditorium will be of such a depth so as to have a good height for a basketball court and class in gymnastics and calisthenics, along with ample room for several hundred spectators. At present, the high school is forced to use the basketball court at Gettysburg College, which has been found to be entirely inadequate on more than one occasion, such as the Gettysburg-York High School basketball game last winter.

SCHOOL BOARD HAS $108,810 FOR BUILDING

Architect Is Employed and Plans Are Submitted For New High Structure.

How the building of a new and badly-needed high school building for Gettysburg can be financed, without increasing the present school tax rate, or without the necessity of a special election to authorize flotation of the school bond issue, was made public this morning by school board officials, in connection with plans for the proposed building.

As against architect's estimated cost of approximately $90,000 for the projected building, the school board has on hand or in prospect approximately $108,810, which is considered sufficient to build and thoroughly equip the new building, according to members of the board.

The school board has but $13,000 in bonds outstanding, which are being reduced at the rate of $1,000 a year, which is deducted in reaching the amount the board has on hand or in prospect.

In its old building fund account, the board has set aside approximately $4,700, which will be used to retire the issues of the $13,000 bonded indebtedness, but, which, nevertheless, can be counted as one of its cash assets in the building of a new building since it is being added to each year as the need arises for the redemption of the $1,000 bonds and the payment of interest charges, declared a member of the board.

Two years ago, the board, finding its building fund account growing faster than the demands upon it, decided to start a special building fund account, which to date has an approximate balance of $18,300, which is on interest. By starting this special fund, the board was able to accumulate a fund looking ahead to the time when a new high school building would be required.

It was pointed out by members of the board that, had this special building fund not been started, it might have been possible to lower the tax rate two years ago, but that now, with the new building a necessity, the tax rate would probably have to have been increased to not less than 20 mills, members of the board stated. The present rate is 16 mills.

Fund From Tuition

The new building fund has been started from amounts paid to the school board by county school districts. (Continued on Second Page)

PAVING CASES READY FOR TRIAL

Solicitor Swope Asks Continuance in Hudson Case and Is Refused; Witness Absent.

Residents of Hanover street, who are protesting payment of their paving bills, and their attorney, William Hersh, feel they won a preliminary skirmish before Judge D. P. McPherson this morning.

J. Donald Swope, borough solicitor, appeared before the case of the Borough of Gettysburg against Dr. E. D. Hudson, spokesman for the 22 property owners who have joined in the suit, owing, as he said, to the expected absence of Dr. Charles H. Huber, one of his leading witnesses, from Gettysburg next Tuesday, when the case is listed for trial.

Sustain Objection

At the same time, Solicitor Swope asked permission to go ahead with the trial of the other cases, selecting the second of the borough's actions, the case against Roy E. Zinn, former county treasurer, for trial.

William Hersh, standing by while Mr. Swope was asking for the continuance in the one action, and the trial of the Zinn case, interposed with an objection, which Judge McPherson sustained, stating that either all of the cases must be tried or all of them (Continued on Second Page)

United, 72 or 91

Miss Kathleen Black and Miss Lulu Roth, East Middle street, are spending the week-end with the latter's mother, Mrs. Sarah Roth, Munnasburg.

Mrs. J. Price Oyster and son, R. Z. Oyster, York street, have motored to Lansford, where they will visit at the home of Mr. Oyster's wife, who will accompany them home on Sunday, after spending three weeks with her mother.

Isaac Wilson, of Biglerville, who will leave soon to make his home with his son, Edward C. Wilson, in Baltimore, Maryland, was given a farewell dinner Friday night at the Friends' Meeting House at Flora Dale. Mr. Wilson has been the minister at the Friends' Meeting House for the past ten years, and the guests included about fifty members of that congregation. They presented him with a pair of gold cuff links, a watch chain and an umbrella. The time after dinner was spent in a pleasant social way. The committee in charge of the affair included Mrs. William C. Tyson, Misses Anna Black and Eleanor Prickett and Wallace Peters.

A "500" party for the benefit of the Woman's Auxiliary of the American Legion was given Friday night by Mrs. Robert C. Miller, Mrs. J. I. Mumper and Mrs. William G. Weaver, at the Miller home on Baltimore street. Fifty guests were present and refreshments for the high scores were received by Mrs. F. O. Miller, Miss Effie Singley, Fred Faber and John R. Williams. Refreshments were served.

The Phi Delta Theta fraternity held its annual spring dance Friday night at the chapter house on Lincoln avenue, with thirty couples present. Music was furnished by the College Serenaders, and the patrons and patronesses were Mr. and Mrs. John W. Melhenny, Captain and Mrs. S. C. Thompson, Professor and Mrs. Fred Haehnel.

Clarence Sheely, who is a student in Dickinson Law School at Carlisle, is spending the week-end here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Oyster, York street, will return tomorrow from a visit with relatives in Lansdale.

Mrs. James Martin and children, of Harrisburg, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wright in Biglerville.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Weaver, Broadway, will leave Sunday for a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Belknap in Philadelphia.

Miss Evelyn Little, East Middle street, spent the day in Harrisburg.

Mrs. C. B. Dougherty and Mrs. J. E. Easterday are spending several days with the Rev. and Mrs. Roy Derr, Burnham.

PAVING CASES

continued until a future term of court.

The court pointed out the fact that if Dr. Huber was a principal witness in the Hudson case he was just as equally an important witness in the Zinn and every other one of the 22 actions, since the same points are involved throughout.

After ten minutes had elapsed, Solicitor Swope informed the court that he was ready to go ahead with the trial of any one of the actions, despite the fact that Doctor Huber would be absent.

To Try Case
The court then inquired of Mr. Hersch what he proposed to do, since he could ask for a continuance if his clients so desired. Mr. Hersch stated, however, that he was ready to go ahead with the trial of the selected case on the day it was listed.

Later Mr. Hersch informed court house officials and newspapermen that he would not ask for a continuance because of the absence of Dr. Huber, one of the borough's chief witnesses.

"We have gained a point against the borough," was the declaration of Dr. Edward D. Hudson, the Hanover street property owners' spokesman, when he was informed of the efforts of Solicitor Swope to seek postponement of the case against him, and try that of Mr. Zinn instead.

Doctor Huber was chairman of the borough's highway committee when Hanover street was paved several years ago. Because the street was paved in alleged freezing weather which has caused the concrete to break up and disintegrate, according to the allegations of the defendants in the suits, 22 of the property owners refused to pay their assessments, which has led to the present action.

Aunt Of Local Woman Succumbs

Word was received here today of the death of Mrs. R. T. Moyer, of Pittsburgh, which occurred Thursday at Daytona, Florida.

Mrs. Moyer was an aunt of Mrs. Charles Smith, Broadway, at whose home she frequently was a guest. She will be remembered by many who met her, on account of her cheerful disposition, even though she had been blind for a number of years.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are in Pittsburgh and will attend the funeral services which will be held there Monday morning.

SCHOOL BOARD

tricts for tuition charges for pupils from their respective districts attending Gettysburg High School.

In addition to the balances in the old and special building fund accounts, the board will have a balance of approximately $17,000 in the regular school fund at the end of this school year. To this are added unpaid state appropriations for 1924 and 1925 of $6,000; unpaid taxes of $3,500 for 1923, and $5,500 for 1924; approximate tuitions payable June 1, 1925, of $10,000 and payable June 1, 1926, of $10,000.

The board estimates that it has estimated cash available for new building without borrowing of $75,000.

Borrowing Capacity
That sum, however, will not be sufficient to pay for a new and modern high school, such as is contemplated, but the board has figured that on the new assessed valuation of real estate in Gettysburg, $2,340,520, it can borrow $46,810.40, that amount being 2 per cent of the valuation, which is the legal amount the board may borrow.

From this $46,810.40 which the board could borrow must be deducted the amount of its outstanding bonds, $13,000, which leaves the net amount the board may borrow of $33,810.40 on new loans without impairing its financial capacity.

With the estimated $75,000 cash available, and the $33,810, the net amount the board may borrow on new loans, the total $108,810 on hand or its prospect is arrived at, the board estimates.

Shower baths and lockers will complement the gymnasium equipment. The latest type of furnace and fresh air equipment, by means of which pure air will be forced into classrooms and foul air forced out, will be located in the basement, along with the gymnasium.

Large Building
While the exact size of the building has not been definitely decided, it will be of such dimensions that all of the classrooms will be large, well-lighted and modernly equipped.

The school building, as the present plans indicate, will be built to accommodate several hundred more pupils than the present building, since larger numbers of pupils are attending Gettysburg High School with each succeeding year.

Not only will the building be large enough to accommodate present needs, but it will be built for the future, so that no additional building need be done for many years. However, should the time ever come when additional classroom facilities are required, the building can be enlarged by building to the wings, extending them as far across the Playground as is needed, or eventually joining the wings with a section similar to the one in front, thereby forming a hollow square, with the auditorium in the center.

Details To Be Worked Out
Many of the details of the structure have not been worked out, but the school board has indicated that it will make known every feature of the building and its financing as additional steps are taken.

Recently the school board purchased the property at the entrance to the Playground from Milton H. Plank, Harrisburg, so that it could be used to give greater access to the projected building which will be on the Playground, lying directly behind the Plank tract.

REILEY FUNERAL SERVICES SUNDAY

Military honors will be paid Charles L. Reiley, 29-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Reiley, York street, Sunday afternoon by the Albert J. Lentz Post, the American Legion. Reiley was a veteran of the World War.

According to more accurate details of the young man's death, he had accepted a position as a truck driver for a Philadelphia concern and was being shown his new route by an old driver. Reiley, according to information from Philadelphia today, was not driving the machine at the time. The truck in which he was riding was passing several large trucks, that were at a standstill. When they were about cleared of the last truck, the latter driver, is said to have started out, swerving his machine into the truck in which Reiley was riding. The local young man was thrown out, landing on his head on the pavement.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home.

6-YEAR-OLD BOY FRACTURES LEG

Charles, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Livingstone, of New Oxford, suffered a fracture of his right leg between the ankle and the knee between five and six o'clock last evening.

The youngster, in company with other playmates, was jumping out of a window of a new home being constructed at New Oxford. The youngsters were playing around the house, when young Livingstone jumped out of the window, turning his leg, when he struck the ground. The fractured member was set and he was taken to the local hospital today for an X-ray picture.

14 MINERS ARE RESCUED ALIVE

Entrapped by Fire, Miners Fight Blaze 2000 Feet Below Ground Level; Rescued Friday.

Wallace, Idaho, April 25.—The fourteen miners entrapped Thursday night by a fire in the lower workings of the Hecla mine, at Burke, seven miles from here, were rescued alive late Friday.

A rescue crew that went into the mine found that the entrapped miners, using a pump which was in the tunnel, had so successfully battled the flames that they had them extinguished.

Karl L. Sparks, chief engineer of the United States mine rescue service for the Coeur d'Alene district, was one of three men who went to the 2000-foot level of the Hecla mine to attempt the rescue.

Prior to 2:30 o'clock, when the men entered the shaft in the mine cage, intense heat prevailed at the 2000-foot level. A stream of water had been poured into the workings since 11 o'clock.

L. C. Henley, superintendent of the mine, issued a statement a few hours before the rescue, expressing the belief that the men who were entrapped some two miles from the shaft had thrown up a bulkhead and were in a position of safety. They had been furnished with a supply of air all day.

The fire started Thursday night when timbers in the mine were ignited, supposedly from faulty or broken wiring.

outside of the cities, the country is made up of small towns and villages, which are from one to three miles apart. There are no farm houses; they are all together, as stated above. A family usually owns from one to three acres, some, however, have only a large garden, and some few have as much as 75 to 100 acres, but very large landowners are an exception. Now that the government is out of debt, as well as the states, the people who had savings of money or securities have become poor, and institutions of all kinds have been wiped out. This is a great hardship, but only those who have or had houses and land, are now in a fairly good position. Germany, as a whole, I believe, is better off than any large nation in the world. They have no debt outside of the reparations, and the people are reconciled to the fact that for years to come, saving for the future is out of the question, on account of the high taxation and high cost of living.

At Birth-Place
"We are in my birth place, and I took coffee with the people who occupy the house in which I was born. Certainly the words of the poet—'Lives there a man with soul so dead, who ne'er to himself has said, this is my own dear native land'—came forcibly to my heart and mind, but only for a moment, because the thought of and love for 'my country' 'tis of Thee, sweet land of Liberty' came to me. It is very pleasant to see the World, but as the poet says, 'there is no place like home.'"

"We expect to leave here for a trip down the river Rhine, stopping at Cologne, then on to Paris. We expect to see some of the battlefields, and then go on to Cherbourg to take steamer for home."

WILL NOT VOTE ON VETS' BONUS
Cannot be Submitted at General Election Because of Five Year Provision in Recent Act.

(By Associated Press.)
Harrisburg, April 25.—The proposed $35,000,000 soldiers' bonus amendment to the state constitution cannot be submitted to the voters' of the state this year, the Dauphin county court held in a decision today.

The decision was rendered in a mandamus action brought by the commander of the Harrisburg post of the American Legion to compel the secretary of the Commonwealth to have the proposed amendment advertised for submission at this year's general election.

The decision handed down by President Judge Hargest cited the action of the Supreme Court in which it held that the amendment could not be submitted in 1924 since the constitution had been amended in 1923 and further amendments were prohibited by that section of the constitution which states: "No amendment shall be submitted oftener than once in five years."

Judge Hargest's opinion held "as unsound" the argument that "because the constitution was amended within the five year period, those amendments were untimely and that the proper method was to compute the period from the timely submission."

DIRIGIBLE WILL VISIT PORTO RICO

Lakehurst, N. J., April 25.—The dirigible Los Angeles, which arrived yesterday from Bermuda after weathering a fifty-mile gale, will leave next week on a 1300-mile trip to Porto Rico.

The proposed voyage, which will be by far the longest since its arrival in America, will be started as soon after next Monday as possible. Captain George Steele, commanding officer, announced Friday.

According to Captain Steele, the Los Angeles should make the Porto Rico trip in twenty-six to thirty hours.

The Los Angeles arrived from Bermuda 6½ hours overdue as a result of the gale. Soaring to new heights at a point above Cape Hatteras to avoid thunderstorms, the great blimp, with fifty-eight men aboard, encountered violent headwinds, through which it pushed at a snail's pace.

The home trip took 20 hours and 43 minutes, while on its first visit to Bermuda the dirigible returned in 14 hours and 13 minutes.

GIVE $750,000 FOR SESQUI FAIR

Governor Pinchot Signs Appropriation After Cutting $250,000 From Legislators' Figure.

Harrisburg, April 25.—Governor Pinchot yesterday approved the Bromley bill, which provides for the official participation of the commonwealth in the Sesqui-Centennial celebration at Philadelphia next year.

In approving the bill, however, he reduced the amount of the appropriation from $1,000,000 to $750,000, and explained in a statement issued at the time of signing the bill that it was "with difficulty" that he was able to find that amount after the manner in which the legislature has appropriated beyond the income of the state.

The amount approved, he said, is "sufficient for a dignified and impressive participation" by the state in the celebration, and is 50 per cent larger than the $500,000 which the city of Philadelphia itself has appropriated for the exposition in its own city.

The state appropriation is to be administered by a commission of three members, named by the governor, and with the governor serving ex-officio. This commission will have "full authority" to decide the manner of spending the $750,000 of state money, which is not appropriated as a nest egg for the Sesqui-Centennial management nor to the Philadelphia Council as at first proposed.

CORONER'S JURY RETURNS VERDICT

(By Associated Press.)

London, April 25.—A coroner's jury investigating the "mystery house" today returned a verdict that Granville Cook and Selwyn Foster, whose bodies were found there about a month ago, died of asphyxiation caused by escaping gas. The jury expressed no opinion whether or not the deaths were accidental.

(In a gloomy old mansion built in a graveyard in the Bloomsbury section of London, the bodies of Cook, 50, a poet and inventor, and Foster, 21, son of a wealthy family, were found dead under circumstances not satisfactorily explained to the police.)

BENDER, FIFTH IN DECATHLON

"Piney" Bender, star athlete of Gettysburg College, won fifth place in the Decathlon at Penn State with a total of 5669.063 while Plansky, National A. A. U. title holder, came through with a rush to top the honor.

Biglerville High School track men won third place in the relay race at Philadelphia, according to word received here late this afternoon. Royersford was first, with Birdsboro, second.

FACES MURDER TRIAL

(By Associated Press.)
Chicago, April 25.—Henry J. Ferneks, alleged bank robber captured in a library a week ago, may not be taken to face murder charges in Philadelphia, the state prosecutor has decided. Instead he may be placed on trial here for murder.

Ferneks has expressed a willingness to be tried here before taken East, police said.

STOCK REPORT

(By Associated Press.)
New York, April 25.—With the exception of some violent declines in high priced specialties and the bidding of a few selected public utilities, rails and industrials prices drifted aimlessly in today's short and quiet session of the stock market. Reading led a rally in the rails. The closing was irregular.

HERRMANN HELD AFTER BEER RAID

Cincinnati Club President Says Beverage Didn't Contain Any "Kick"; Gives Statement.

St. Louis, April 25.—Garry Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati National League baseball club, was arrested here Friday on a federal warrant charging illegal possession of liquor. He was arraigned before a United States commissioner and furnished $500 bond.

The warrant was issued following a raid Thursday on quarters in the Statler Hotel reserved by the "royal Red rooters," a group of Cincinnati baseball fans. Thirteen kegs of beer were claimed to have been found by the federal agents.

It was also announced that warrants had been issued for five members of the rooters' club and two employees brought here by the club from Cincinnati.

John Dyott, special assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition cases here, is investigating the case. Dyott subpoenaed Manager C. S. Abell, of the hotel; Herrmann and four servants of the rooters to appear at his office for questioning. The beer was destroyed by the agents.

The "royal Red rooters," some 110 strong, had engaged the entire seventeenth floor for their clubrooms. When federal prohibition agents raided a private dining room on the floor shortly before Thursday's game, they found about thirty-five rooters present and two kegs of beverage on tap. Eleven other kegs were found in a refrigerator and twelve empties were nearby.

Manager Abell, of the hotel, said he inquired of the rooters if they had brought any intoxicants and was informed in the negative. When trucks were backed up to the Statler's back door and twenty-five barrels were unloaded, along with sauer kraut, sausages, pretzels, cheese and other edibles, Manager Abell said he felt it must be true, for who, he argued, would unload beer openly.

Herrmann expressed great surprise when informed that samples of the beer, tested by agents, had run from 3.5 per cent to 4.5 per cent alcoholic content.

"I can't believe it," said Herrmann. "It didn't taste like that to me."

MANY OPPOSE

volving tourists and cars parked along the town's main streets were cited to the committee as reason enough for a change in the parking system.

The highway committee, it was stated, has been informed that parking at a sharper angle with the curb would be preferable to the present system of 45-degree parking, or horizontal parking to which plan few motorists, it is understood, wish to return, because of the inconvenience of moving into or out of a space along the curb.

May Reduce Angle
Instead of the present 45-degree angle parking plan, it has been suggested to the committee that the angle be reduced to 25 or 30 degrees with the curb, by which system the rear ends of cars would be swung nearer the sidewalks, thereby allowing more space in the street for passing vehicles.

But the highway committee is figuratively "up a tree" as to what should be done about changing the parking system.

J. E. Snyder, chairman of the highway committee, of which W. I. Oyster and Harry Koch are members, has asked that persons having suggestions to make on proposed changes in the parking plan write to him or address communications on the subject to The Gettysburg Times, so that the opinion of Gettysburg and Adams county motorists on this question can be ascertained.

Chairman Snyder pointed out that it will soon be necessary to repaint the parking stall lines on the main streets, but before that is done he wishes to have the consensus of opinion of local motorists as to the advisability of changing the system. Suggestions as to any new and untried system of parking, which would be beneficial to Gettysburg, also are welcomed by Mr. Snyder.

PINCHOT VETOES GRIMES MEASURE

(By Associated Press.)

Harrisburg, April 25.—Governor Pinchot today vetoed the Grimes' bill to prohibit the display of other than standard time by clocks on public buildings and along highways.

The measure it was contended was designated as a companion act to the law passed two years ago under which passage of daylight saving time ordinances by municipalities is prohibited.

EBERT'S SON IS BEATEN BY COPS

Berlin, April 25.—Friedrich Ebert, Jr., son of the late president of Germany, and Fritz Koch, chairman of the Berlin Reichsbanner organization, were arrested last night and allegedly struck with police clubs when, in response to cries of "Down with Marx," they called "Long live the republic!"

When the chief of police was notified he ordered their immediate release.

Dormitories for Weeds and Bugs
[By BERT HALL, National Crop Improvement Service.]
THERE are hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of weed seeds and trash in grain sent to market. There are millions of dollars' worth of damage done by insects. Both these weed and bug pests are propagated along the fence rows in the dense weeds which often grow as high as the fence. At some time during the year, when the weather is dry, these weeds should be burned. This is a tax which every farmer can reduce on his own account.

Planning His Rotation
[By BERT HALL, National Crop Improvement Service.]
DIVERSIFICATION of crops is given as the cure for all farmers' troubles. The simplest way to begin diversification is to draw a plan of the farm, dividing it practically into four sections, and keep a record on this plan of the crops in each field each season. If this method is employed, the same plan may be used upon which to keep data of all kinds: date of planting, dates of harvesting, dates of plowing, yield per bushel, when crop was marketed, etc. These plans kept flat and filed away will give all necessary data from year to year.

The Vanishing Men

When the purple crepe of evening had been spread over the baking sands and the stars had been set out in their infinite careless pattern in the high desert sky, the car, with opened muffler, turned her nose out of the trail that followed the line of the railroad and began to kick the sand behind as if she were a hound. It was as if she were leaving forever the sight and memory of mankind.

This country is without mercy to living things. After thirty miles of hard pulling through the bare loose-surfaced plain, tossed gently about as if they were riding in a motorboat over the long rollers of the sea, they saw before them on the crest of a sand wave a running pack of coyotes, who came up suddenly, black against the moonlight like dog fish lifted into sight on a wave. But after that all vegetation and even the cacti which stood like trained seals, their flappers held out as if ready to begin a dance, became sparse, and the emptiness was that of the frontier of death itself.

Peter turned to look at Brena. Her face, illumined by the moon, was lifted a little; with the hair blown back by the hot wind, her eyes glistened like those of one who rides toward battle in a calm spirit. She felt, perhaps, his gaze, and, turning, smiled. She wondered why he had been unwilling to tell her why they went, what he sought, the facts he had found.

"Will you tell me—afterward?" she asked.

"Yes—if I win," he answered. "I will tell you then. Before that I've no particular right to do it—not till I'm sure. The thing is too tremendous."

When the moon had reached the bottom of the bowl of the sky, De Wolfe looked again at his speedometer.

"Did you notice that our searchlight no longer picks up little insects and turns them into flashes of silver?" he asked.

"Yes."

He stopped the car to fill the radiator.

"We are coming into the most arid land in the world, where no rain falls and there is no dew. It is the country of eternal stillness. There is no life; not even the insects exist here. There is no motion. There is no sound. Listen!"

Brena looked about at the great flat disk of the desert as she stood with her hand on Peter's shoulder; it was like a world of hardened concrete, without flexibility, without a motion. She listened and heard only his heart and the throb of silence that comes only in places of utter stillness.

"I'm glad I'm with you, Peter," she said. "There is a threat here, isn't there?"

He nodded. "We've been seventy-five miles. To a man on foot without water that would be death—a horrible death with the sand dragging at the feet—just like the flies one sees trying to pull their legs along fly paper, with the heat burning all moisture out of the body, with the silence and the stillness inviting him to madness, and his aching limbs gradually turning his footpath around and around in smaller circles to a center of death."

Peter had driven his car over the great flat disk, scarred with irregularity, but nevertheless like a talking machine record with its tiny impressions. The hours had called for endurance of smarting eyes that had stared so long for gullies or chasms, and of aching arm muscles that had held the twists and tugs of the front wheels. He allowed the car to come to a stop and shut off the engine.

"Both of us need a rest and water," he said to Brena. "And you need breakfast."

She did not talk to him as he fixed the car, nor when, having looked back along the slight cut of the old prehistoric road bed now filled almost to its old banks with drifting sands, he squatted over a map, measuring and consulting a pocket compass. His anxiety was evident.

They went forward again, however, under the full light of day into a trackless waste where there was not even a depression to guide them and where Brena, holding the compass in her hands, gave directions to him as he moved the wheel. At the end of twenty miles more Brena uttered an exclamation.

"What is that on the desert?" she asked. "Peter, look! There! to the left."

A little point of light shone on the sand as if a diamond had caught the sunlight and had extracted from it a bit of its essence to outline the sun himself. Peter, steering toward it, looked down over the edge of the car as one might look over the edge of a boat at some piece of strange flotsam sighted in midocean. This was strange flotsam indeed. Peter having stopped the car again to pick it up, showed it to Brena; it was an empty vial of white glass.

Peter sprang out of the car, and, walking about in widening circles, searched the ground. He appeared excited. Time and time again he looked at the little glass vial.

"Some one has been here," said Brena. "I'm just Irish enough to say that, Peter."

"Hush," he said. "I've seen more than you have seen. It means everything to us!"

He bent over her as if he were going to take her in his arms, but he teased his head at some thought that had restrained him, and took the wheel once more.

At nine o'clock they came within sight of a great mound on the desert; it appeared as if it were the fat round back of some gigantic creature that had buried itself for a sleep of centuries in a sand wallow of vast area.

"There it is!" exclaimed De Wolfe. "Look, Brena. Look to the west. Somewhere up there is the Llano Estacado—the Staked plain—as the Spanish explorers called it. And there's the haze on the horizon—the haze that the Jesuit missionaries told about. It comes from the colder air of the Mesquero ridge."

"And it means that we have found our way?"

"Yes, found our way. There's ninety miles more."

"Where are we going?"

"To the oldest city, Brena, in America. To a city at the base of a high cliff, built of clay which crumbled centuries ago into dust. The wall is left perhaps as it was two centuries ago. A dry well. A carving upon the rock. A windless place occupied only by horned toads and perhaps one other misshapen thing."

At three o'clock they had stopped again to eat; they were able to see in the west the tops of distant mountains marked by a deeper, duller blue than the thin cloudless rotunda of the sky. An hour later they came within sight of the tableland upon which these mountains were set like piles of food upon a giant's doorstep. And this step-up—this mesa—with its precipitous edge, marked the end of the desert.

"The cliffs that rise to that tableland are impassable," said Peter, with his eyes alight and his voice filled with excitement. "The city was built below their protection around a great well and walled in front with thick fortifications. We shall see them, Brena!"

He looked at the opening in the high wall as if it were the maw of Destiny opened to belch forth upon them a sentence.

"Tell me, Peter—are there dangers there? Do you know?"

"I only guess," he answered. "I think there are none. I think, Brena, that beyond that wall there is freedom for us—life for us—a message for us."

"I must go with you."

He nodded.

At the entrance he stopped, gazing down at the ground—the film, the blanket of fine dust. He uttered an exclamation.

"What do you see, Peter?"

"I see a record in the sand."

"What record?"

"We shall see more," he said grimly. "Come."

Toward this memorial of tragedy, of death, of decay, of the insignificance of time, of the inconsequence of an age of man, Brena and Peter, like two creatures of a moment of life, walked with solemn, awed faces.

"Look!" said Peter suddenly. "Have you your nerve? Look!"

He pointed to a pile of charred bones lying close to the wall. Among them was a piece of human skull blackened as if by fire.

"Wait," Peter commanded.

He went forward, bent over the ghastly pile, kicked the sand that surrounded it and, stooping down, gathered a number of objects into the cup of his hand.

"This was no prehistoric man," he said solemnly. "See! The eyelets and the nails of shoes. The leather long ago vanished. Here are two mother of pearl buttons, a pocket knife, coins, the snap on a wallet. This man lost his life, Brena, many years ago."

She tried to speak, wetting her dry lips with the tip of her tongue.

"There are things of gold, too," said Peter. "Keep your nerve, dear. Look at this!"

He held out in his trembling fingers a signet ring with an H deeply engraved upon it.

"That!" exclaimed Brena with horror. "It was his!—Jim Hennepin's. This is—him?"

"Yes."

Brena moved toward the pile of bones half consumed by fire; then she stopped and looked away.

"He was killed," she said. "He was shot or stabbed."

"No," replied Peter grimly. "It was worse than that—more ghastly. He was killed. But it was not by human hand."

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

CAN'T HURRY IN CONGESTED TRAFFIC

When you try to go fast in congested traffic you are really gaining nothing according to a series of tests made by scouts of the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California through the congested districts of Los Angeles.

These demonstrated that it is extremely doubtful if the time saved by hurrying and exceeding the speed limit pays for the extra gasoline and the brake lining worn by drivers trying to cut down time.

Do you allow pasters of one kind or another to be attached to the windshield of your car? It is a dangerous practice.

The practice of "heading" a motor car into a parking space, regardless of its size, and leaving it there, forcing traffic to turn out for the rear end, is one that should be discouraged.

In parking always assume that there may come a time when the man ahead of the man behind may want to move his car. Give him plenty of room.

The Automobile Trade Journal has been telling its readers of the possible uses of arcades and overpasses as a means of reducing traffic congestion.

Highway illumination is becoming more and more of importance. Adequate highway illumination is a real safety measure.

"Baby Tornado" Hits Pittsburgh

A fierce wind and rain storm that swept Pittsburgh played havoc in some parts of the city. Photo shows part of the Mission street bridge which was wrecked by the "baby tornado." DRINK-CRAZED MAN KILLS WIFE

Hacks Her to Death With a Bread Knife and Then Attempts to Commit Suicide; Drinks Hootch.

Philadelphia, April 25.—Crazed by bootleg whisky, Joseph Malieck, 55, hacked his wife, mother of six children, to death with a bread knife in their home late Friday afternoon. After threatening his 13-year-old daughter with a revolver, he fled to a bedroom and shot himself twice in the head. He probably will die.

Fumes from a still in operation on the kitchen stove, a few feet from the spot where lay the body of the wife and mother, the bread knife protruding from her mouth, greeted police and firemen as they smashed their way through the locked front door in answer to the hysterical screams of the daughter.

A trail of blood, from the kitchen to the stairs, led to the second floor bedroom, where Malieck was found, crumpled in a chair, unconscious and still grasping the revolver with which he shot himself. Two shots, both of which took effect in the man's head, were heard by the police as they broke into the house. Malieck was taken to the Episcopal Hospital, where it was said he could live but a short time.

Lucy, the 13-year-old daughter, was found by the police and firemen hugging her dead mother and crying frantically when they returned to the first floor bearing the husband and father. From her and from neighbors it was learned that Malieck, who is employed at Eddystone on the night shift, had been drinking and quarreling all day with his wife as he attended to his still.

Atlantic City, April 25.—Absorbed in reading the Hunchback of Notre Dame, Sylvia Shenkman, 17, was locked in the public library here, when attendants closed the place at 9 o'clock Wednesday night.

Miss Shenkman screamed and beat on the window panes, finally attracting the attention of a policeman, who opened a basement window through which she crawled. "I'm through with Victor Hugo," was her first statement when reaching the street, "absolutely through."

BULLETS OPEN SEASON TUESDAY

Gettysburg Ball Club of County League to Play Giants Tuesday Afternoon at Playground.

BULLETS OPEN SPORTS

Gettysburg's representatives in the Adams County Baseball League will unofficially open the season here Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, when they cross bats with the local Giants, colored team, in the first contest of the season. Manager Oyler announced that Tuesday's contest will give him an opportunity to test his crew under fire, as the Giants are said to have a formidable aggregation on the diamond this year.

Practice sessions held every evening this week, have served to polish the rough edges off the local candidates for berths on this year's squad and the men are anxious to get on the firing line against the Giants.

The season officially opens next Saturday at McSherrystown with the strong St. Mary's nine as the locals' opponents. McSherrystown won the pennant last year and are said to be determined to repeat the stunt this year. They are confident of taking the Bullets into port in the opening contest next week-end while Manager Oyler, working under a handicap with several of his most valuable players still unreported, expects to give the east countians a strong bid for opening honors.

The directors at a recent meeting took under consideration the contract of Manager Oyler, as "player-manager" contending that his participation in the Blue Ridge league disqualifies him from playing in the Adams county league.

Officials of the local club, however, have announced that they will issue formal protests against three members of other teams, who are said to be in the same class with Oyler, relative to class ball and this dispute is holding up official sanction of several contracts.

The wrinkle is expected to be ironed out before the season opens.

LITTLESTOWN

Littlestown—Private E. Foreman Stavelo, who has been spending a five-day furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Stavelo, East King street, left Wednesday for Fort Hancock, New Jersey, where he is stationed.

Mrs. Dennis Byers, Philadelphia, was entertained on Tuesday at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Byers, East King street. The will of Miss Barbara E. Rohrbaugh, late of Littlestown borough, has been filed for probate at the office of the register and recorder, Gettysburg, by Howard G. Blocher, this place, the executor.

Mr. and Mrs. George Selby, Uniontown, Maryland, and daughter, Miss Florence Selby, Miami, Florida, spent Sunday as the guests of the former's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Tagg, South Queen street. Roy D. Knouse, Silver Run, Maryland, spent Wednesday evening, as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Hickey, East King street.

Mrs. George W. Adams, Norfolk, Virginia, is visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. I. F. MacNair, Kump apartments.

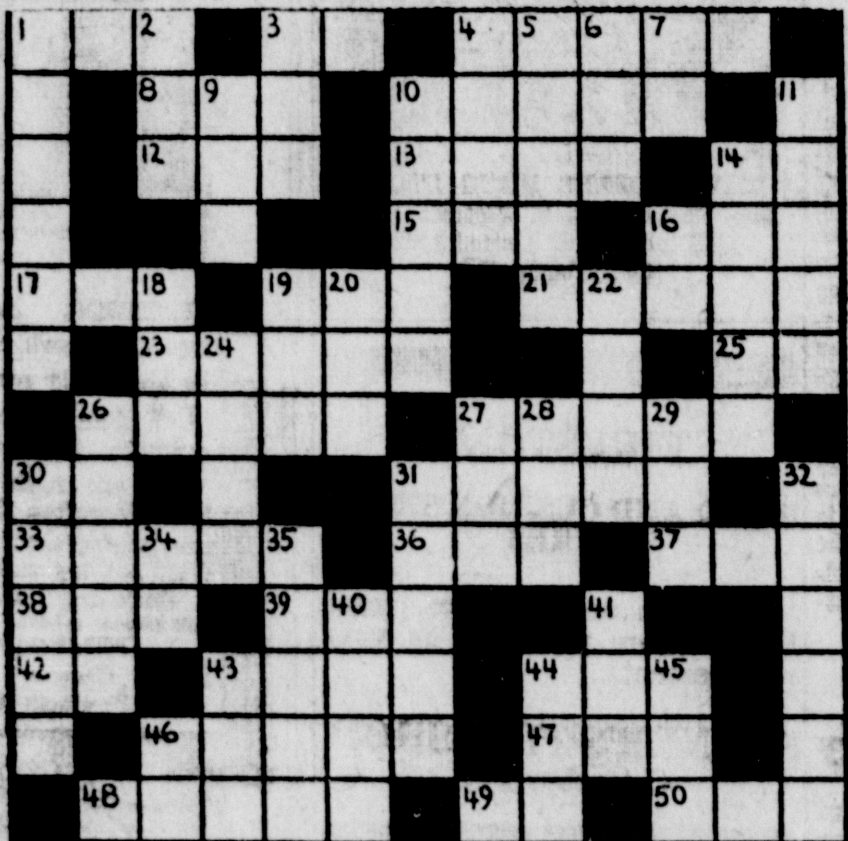

W. A. Wachter, Walkersville, Maryland, transacted business in town, on Thursday.

Mrs. Oliver Reaver, near Littlestown, spent Monday as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sentez and family, Lombard street.

The baseball fair held by the Littlestown club of the Adams county league proved to be quite a success. After the expenses were paid the club had a balance of $300, which is considered remarkable good for one night. Due to the inclement weather on Friday night few persons attended but on Saturday night the bazaar was well attended. The ball club and fans appreciate the attitude of the people of the town who donated so generously, and who helped to make it a success in every way.

Miss Virgie Dutta returned on Thursday to her home in Taneytown, after spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Holman Sell, South Queen street.

JUST FOLKS

By Edgar A. Guest

THE LAWS

"The never changing laws
Have been and will be to the journey's end,
Honor is even nobler than the cause,
Riches can never shamefulness defend.

"Truth reigns supreme!
The eyes of Conscience see when men are blind,
That which to others victory may seem,
To Self is failure of the basest kind.

"Ourselves we cannot cheat!
In those still hours God meant for secret thought,
When men cast up the soul's true balance sheet
We find not what we took, but how we fought!

"Honor has no degree,
'Tis not a goal some day to be achieved!
Who lies today need never hope to see
The morning come when he shall be believed.

"Life's laws and God
Permit repentance for the souls sin-scared,
But those who with the penitents have trod
Will tell you that that road is doubly hard.

"So, son of mine,
The laws of nature and of God obey,
Let no temptation lure you from the line.
Let Conscience guide you down the happier way."

RIVIERA SHOWS SPRING COLORS

Monte Carlo.—Advanced original spring colors for women's dress, which have appeared along the Riviera, include oatmeal and a fresh leaf green. These two are the most popular of all the early spring shades which have been seen here and at Nice, and they have been used effectively separately and together. Some of the smarter suitings worn by the younger set contain trimmings suggestive in color of the richest cream.

JURY ACQUITS MONTANA SOLON

Freed of Charge of Practice Before Department; Receives
Word of Birth of Sixth Child.

Great Falls, Mont., April 25.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler was acquitted of a charge of unlawfully using his influence as a senator before the Department of the Interior by a jury in Federal Court here Friday evening.

Exactly two hours and thirteen minutes elapsed between the time the jury retired to deliberate and the time the verdict was returned. Out of this time the jury took one hour to dine. The actual time for deliberation was but a few minutes, according to court attaches. But one ballot was taken.

Birth of Daughter Announced

The accused senator received two pieces of good news simultaneously—his acquittal and the birth to Mrs. Wheeler of a daughter in Washington.

The Wheelers have five other children, two girls and three boys.

Senator Wheeler only smiled when the verdict was announced.

Judge Frank S. Dietrich before the verdict was read warned spectators against any demonstration. In spite of Judge Dietrich's order, there was a rush toward the bench when the verdict was read.

Friends of Senator Wheeler crowded about him and offered double congratulations—on the birth of a daughter and acquittal.

Senator Wheeler said he would issue a statement for the press later.

Phase Of Teapot, Says Walsh
His chief counsel, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, declared that he had regarded the case merely as an offshoot of the Teapot Dome investigation, which he started nearly two years ago, and said he had felt it his duty to appear as counsel for his accused colleague.

John L. Slattery, United States District Attorney, who prosecuted Senator Wheeler, said:

"It was just a case for me, I am the district attorney and hold no choice other than to prosecute. There is no ill-feeling."

SMITH-HYLAN FIGHT-IT-OUT

New York Governor and New York City Mayor Severe Relations; Seek State Leadership.

New York, April 25.—Tammany Hall has been plunged into the fiercest political battle it has known in twenty years in consequence of the break between Governor Smith and Mayor Hylan.

These two strong men in the organization must now fight it out for control. And Tammany appears on the surface to be divided about evenly at the start.

The governor has closed the door on any possibility that he may support Hylan either for renomination or for election. He has "gone the limit" to express his disapproval of the mayor and the Hylan administration.

Issue Is Joined
Hylan has accepted the verdict, lined up his backers and is preparing to prove that he can win the nomination over Smith's head.

The governor is state leader, yet no one minimizes the task he faces. Hylan has been mayor for seven years and has the support of an army of officeholders and pay roll patriots. The mayor dragged out his old "traction trust" bugaboo yesterday as his answer to Governor Smith. Charging that the "traction interests" are behind a move to shelve him and deny him another nomination, the mayor raised his banner of battle.

NEW IDEA ABOUT BEES

Berlin.—Professor von Frisch, of Berlin university, who has made a special study of apiculture, believes that bees who collect honey from roses, for instance, will not pay attention to any other flower. He declares that bees specialize on some one flower for the reason that they react to only one perfume.

South America is showing progress. Chile has just deported five former government officials.

Straight Talks With Aunt Emmy

ON SIGNING PAPERS FOR STRANGERS

"DID you hear about the terrible thing that happened to Mrs. Thompson, Aunt Emmy?" asked Maud. "It seems that a man came to see her to ask her to invest in some securities his firm was selling, and she said she did not have any ready money. He asked her if she had some Liberty Bonds, and she showed him her one Liberty Bond, a thousand dollar one. He told her that there were a number of counterfeit bonds about and upon examining her bond said there were some marks that indicated it might be spurious. Poor Mrs. Thompson nearly fainted and begged the stranger to tell her what to do about it.

"He told her not to be unduly alarmed, that there was a chance that he was mistaken. His firm was indignant, he said, about the counterfeit bonds that had been foisted on the public and intended to do everything in its power to run down the culprits. They employed a man who was an authority on counterfeits and he could tell in a minute if her bond was good or not. So Mrs. Thompson let him have the bond to take to his office for examination.

"And, of course, he didn't bring it back," commented Aunt Emmy. "Worse than that!" Maud went on. "He said that, being a widow, she should be very careful in her business dealings, so he made her sign what he called a receipt, although she didn't read it. About a week after this visit she received a number of shares of stock that she says she never heard of and certainly never bought. So she wrote to the investment house the stock came from and said she thought a mistake had been made. Imagine her surprise when she was informed that she had signed an order for those shares of stock in exchange for a $1,000 Liberty Bond!

"First she was coming right over to see you and then decided not to, because she felt ashamed when she remembered that you had warned her about being taken in, now that Mr. Thompson is dead and she has to handle her own business affairs. My brother Tom says he thinks nothing can be done about it, as the receipt bearing her signature is really an order for the stock."

"I am sorry to hear this, Maud," said Aunt Emmy. "What a pity she did not take her bond to the bank to have it examined if that slick salesman aroused suspicions in her mind as to its genuineness. She would have been dealing with people of integrity, whom she could trust absolutely. And yet she allowed herself to be duped by a perfect stranger!"

"Yet there must be a lot of that sort of thing when you consider that over $600,000,000 a year is being taken away from the honest people in the United States by stock swindlers. If the people would only learn to trust the guidance of their financial affairs to their banks and never sign anything they have not read and do not understand, there would be less unhappiness about money matters."—Anne B. Aymes.

Cut Down Motor Repairs!

75% of all motor repairs are caused by indifferent lubrication. Inferior oils fail under intense motor heat, friction appears, wear starts, repairs begin.

Pennzoil's lubricating quality under high heat is equalled by few oils. Pennzoil flash points, the temperature at which oils break under heat, prove this. Pennzoil flash points are Light, 430°—Medium, 445°—Heavy, 455°—Extra Heavy, 465°. These are far above the flash points of the average oils offered motorists.

Pennzoil cuts repair expense. Its longer life per quart makes it economical, too. You use

GERMANY PICKS CHIEF SUNDAY

Dr. Marx and Von Hindenburg Conclude Campaign With Appeals Over Radio; Vote
Sunday.

Berlin, April 25.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg and Dr. Wilhelm Marx formerly concluded their campaigns for the presidency last night with radio appeals to the voters broadcast respectively from Hanover and Nuremberg.

Von Hindenburg described himself as a man of peace and declared his aim, if elected president, would be to prevent new wars. Dr. Marx declared a victory for the republican groups he represents in Sunday's election will definitely presage a happy future for Germany.

Situation Still Confusing
In greater Berlin the Nationalists, the People's bloc and the Communists staged seventy-eight meetings last night, and in addition dispatched flying squads of gaily decorated motor cars throughout the city to distribute huge bundles of handbills.

With the balloting only thirty-six hours, away, the situation last night continued highly confusing. The betting, which was in favor of Dr. Marx three days ago, was quoted at even money and take your pick on the Bourse yesterday. Advance estimates on the size of Sunday's vote vary between 28,000,000 and 32,000,000. The latter figure assumes a heavy turnout of new voters.

There it stands in all its glory—the most ambitious of cakes, the treasure house of eight eggs! What an accomplishment it is to be an artist cake baker, and yet, after all, how simple!

You never have a failure with "Time and Temperature" Baking

"Time and Temperature" means baking for a certain length of time at a certain temperature. Everything is exact. When you light the oven in your gas range you set a little wheel or knob. This controls the heat, keeping it at a steady, unvarying temperature. Your cakes come up gradually, evenly, bakes through, browns delicately.

Paris, April 25.—Communist members of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday were blamed in the Chamber with having engendered class hatred which culminated early this morning in an ambush of a meeting of the National Republican League in the Rue Darnet, in Montmartre, in which three persons, were killed and forty-three wounded, nine of them dangerously.

The charges were made during an interpellation of the government by the opposition members, M. Taittinger and M. Ybarnegaray. After the PERHAPS you are one of those rare and fortunate persons who are enchanted by the dawn of day.

Perhaps, to you, the alarm clock is as musical as the notes of a lute at twilight.

Perhaps, at cockcrow, you leap eagerly from your bed, fresh-eyed and merry as a child on Christmas morning.

And then again, perhaps not.

Possibly you are just an average sort of person after all, going to bed a little late sometimes—if a book or a movie or a conversation is extra pleasant—and then, of course, the first half hour is—well, the first half hour.

Yet to awake in a room that is furnished with taste and distinction, a clean room, dignified by graceful and attractive furniture—that, in this matter of fact world, is surely next best and quite worth while.

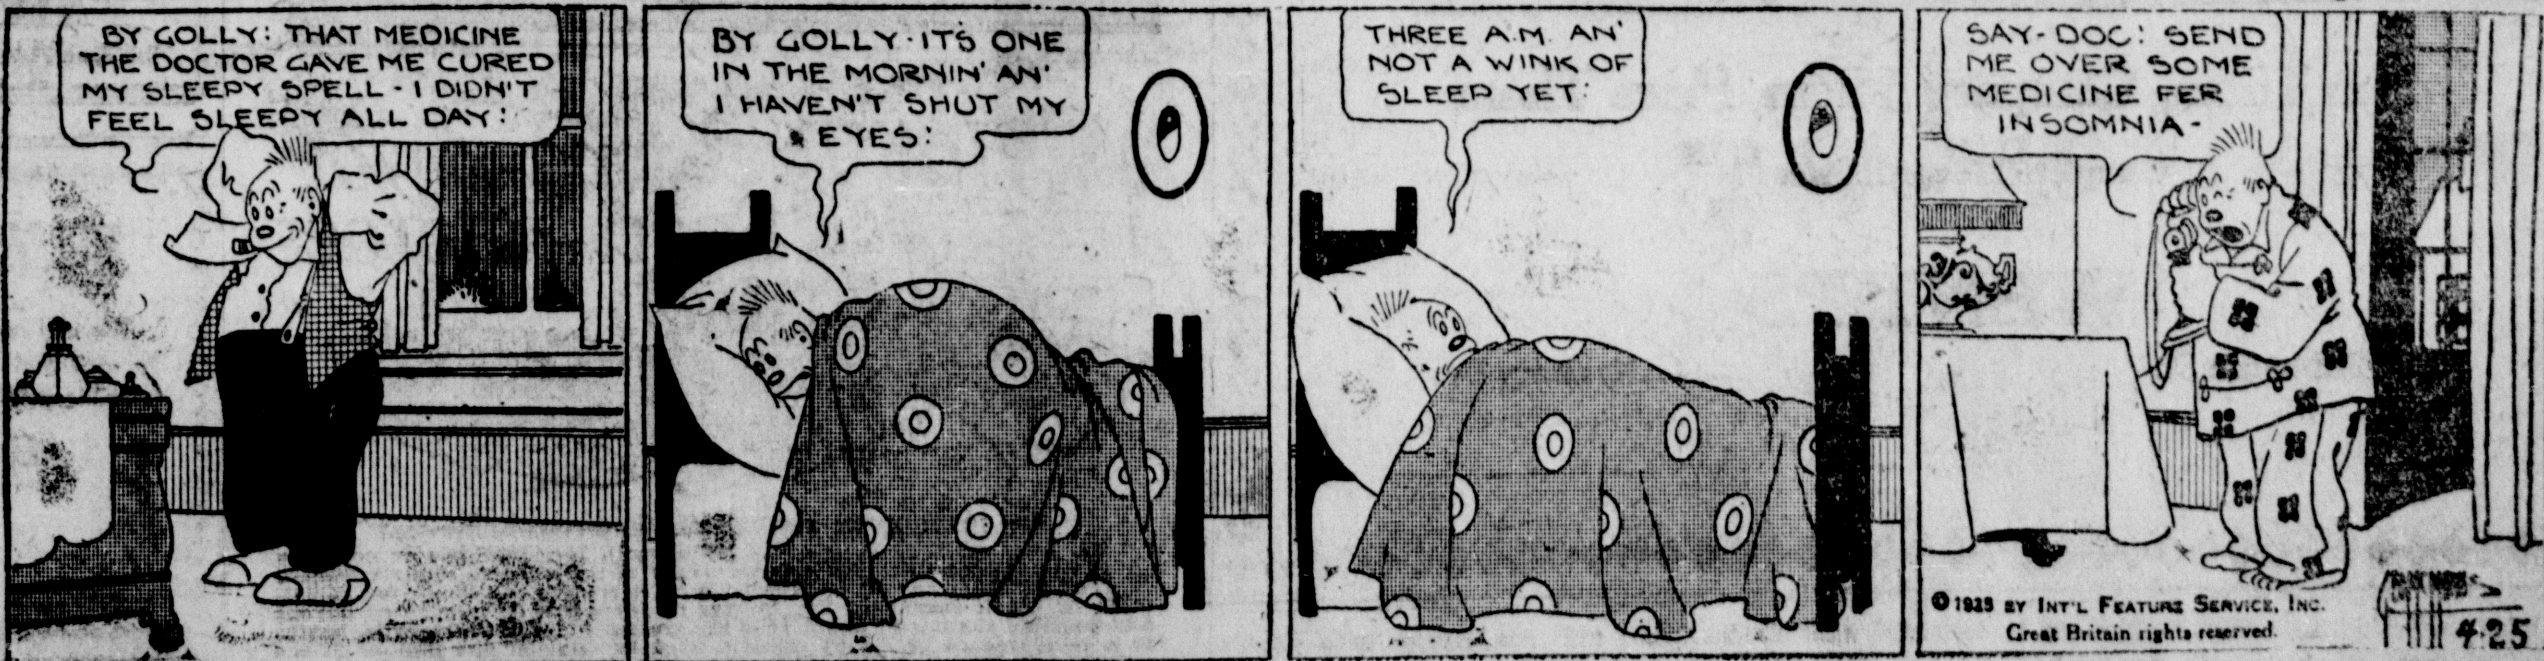

We invite you to see our selection of these charming suites, as well as patterns of other makes.

LONDON SITS FOR ITS PICTURE

London.—Airplanes flying high above the city will shortly take 1,000 photographs for the purpose of making a big air map of Greater London. The pictures will be fitted together to form a vast mosaic, giving a birdseye view of an area of 100 square miles.

53 MILES OF CARPET, DAILY

The wool used daily in the weaving of carpets and rugs by a New York manufacturer is equal to the shearing from thirty thousand sheep. The soft, rich coats of these animals are turned into the looms at the rate of 120,000 pounds every day.

These and many other interesting facts were revealed recently through the publication of statistics concerning their mammoth mills at Yonkers, New York, by Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, said to be the largest manufacturers of carpets and rugs in the world.

If all the wool used in these mills were reckoned according to the number of animals from which it is sheared, a year's output at the mills would represent the clip from 9,000,000 sheep—a number which would constitute herds beyond the imagination.

For the manufacturing of all this wool into American-made carpets and rugs, the energy and industry of 7,600 employees is devoted with a spirit of cooperation and craftsmanship resembling the loyalty given to his individual loom by the smaller weaver of bygone days.

This army of workers operates 1,500 looms, with a total daily production of 90,000 yards of carpets and rugs. Place one day's tremendous output in a continuous line and it would make a strip of carpet 53 miles long. In one year of eight-hour working days, the 1,500 looms turn out 28 millions of yards, making an annual production of almost 16,000 miles, enough to reach more than half way around the world.

Every hour this mill produces 11,250 yards, or 187½ yards per minute! The amount of mechanical energy entering the work may be pictured from the fact that the company uses 225 tons of coal every day. And all this activity takes place in mills which occupy 52½ acres of floor space, ample area to accommodate the parking of about 40,000 motor cars!

It is interesting to note that the founder of these giant mills was also the inventor of the famous Axminster loom. The institution which has carried on since 1860 has specialized, it is said, in the making of four basic weaves known as Axminsters, velvets, tapestry, brussels and Wilton velvets.

AMERICAN APPLES WIN

Fruit dealers declare that American apples taste better, have more character and can be kept longer than any other kind on the market.

PALESTINE TRAVEL GROWS

Jerusalem.—During the 1924 calendar year, 70,613 travelers and returning residents, excluding immigrants, entered Palestine, according to a report in the March issue of the government bulletin of the Palestine government. This figure, it is added, surpasses those of previous years.

"DAPPER DON" FACES CHARGE

New York, April 25.—"Dapper Don" Collins Friday was ordered turned over to the federal authorities in Trenton, N. J., where he is wanted on charges of conspiracy to smuggle liquor into the United States. Commissioner Cotter, however, deferred signing the order until April 27, to give Collins an opportunity to bring habeas corpus proceedings to prosecute his liberty.

Collins fought extradition to southern New Jersey on the grounds that such action would be contrary to the terms under which he was extradited from France. Collins asserted to reporters that he was blamed for many crimes, "just as Gerald Chapman was."

Drawing a parallel between his case and that of the notorious criminal, who is now in Hartford, Conn., under sentence of hanging for shooting a policeman, Collins said:

"I know people who know that Chapman was not in Connecticut at the time of the crime."

SPANISH WOMEN STUDY WELL

Madrid.—Spanish women, albeit slowly, are seeking higher education. During the academic year that ended in 1923 there were 363 female students at the institution as against 60 in 1917. Pharmacy attracted 128 women, philosophy 105, science 78, medicine 46 and the law 6. They are good students, and their work is much more brilliant than that of the men, according to the university authorities.

PROGRESS VISITS MELILLA

Melilla, Morocco.—This city, which has been in the hands of the Spaniards over 400 years, is about to be provided for the first time in its history with a public water supply. Gangs of workers are now engaged in laying cement pipes to bring the water from Yasin and it is hoped that within a short time the municipal authorities will be able to furnish the inhabitants with sufficient water for drinking and hygienic purposes.

PALESTINE POPULATION GROWS

Jerusalem.—Official returns show that 11,851 Jews, 4,573 men, 3,836 women and 3,442 children; entered Palestine as immigrants during the 12 months ended December last. During the same period the Jewish emigrants numbered 2,037, so that the net increase of the population through immigration during the year was 9,814. The corresponding increase in 1923 was 3,788.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

MUST PLAN FOR CITY OF TOMORROW

When the pioneers of the West left the East to lay out new cities they evidently profited by the mistakes made in the East.

Western cities as a whole are much better planned than those of the East. And they should be because the builders had an opportunity to profit from the experience of the older municipalities.

There are today hundreds of small towns which think they have no traffic problem and consequently are making no plans for the future. It is a mistake. Most communities have ambitions to grow and every live community, no matter how small, should have a city planning commission.

City and county buildings should be congregated in what is usually described as a civic center. Streets should be wide.

Sidewalks should be wide. Plenty of space should be allowed for trees, lawns, shrubbery and flower gardens.

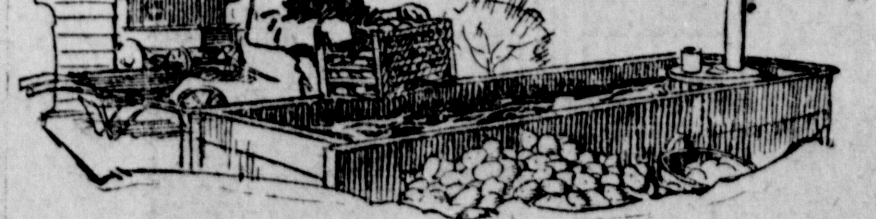

These same towns in laying out new streets should see that they are plenty wide enough. They can't be too wide. Look at the number of communities which are planning highways 120, 200 and even 240 feet wide.

Houses should be set back from the sidewalks with plenty of lawn area if the ground is available.

Every community some day will have its traffic problem. Some small ones have it today because they have allowed state highways to connect with main streets. State highways should go around cities rather than through them. To be sure, there should be good roads leading to the center of the city but traffic should not be concentrated there.

Hot Treatment for Seed Potatoes

[By BERT BALL, National Crop Improvement Service.]

THE long soaking of potatoes either with formaldehyde or corrosive sublimate has many drawbacks. Many of the colleges still recommend that potatoes should be treated with corrosive sublimate for rhizoctonia or black scurf, but Dr. Melhus of Iowa has demonstrated beyond any possible shadow of doubt that the treatment of formaldehyde, heated to a temperature of 118 to 122 and used in solution one pint to fifteen gallons of water, will obtain the very best results in about two minutes. It is necessary to have some method of keeping the temperature constant, because if cooler than 118 the spores will not be killed, and if above 122 there is danger of destroying the germination of the potato.
